Definition of Worldview

Etymology: “Pandangan” means a way or perspective of seeing something. “Semesta” refers to the entire universe.

Worldview: The way or perspective through which a person sees and understands the entire universe.

Terminology: A framework of concepts, beliefs, and basic assumptions that shape how an individual or society understands and interprets reality, existence, and their life experiences.

A worldview encompasses various aspects including religion, philosophy, moral values, and understanding of life and the universe. It influences how a person makes decisions, acts, and interacts with the surrounding world.

A worldview is a mental framework that gives meaning to a person’s life and guides their actions and attitudes in various situations.

Worldview: The Foundation of Building Integrity

- GOD (TAUHID)
- NATURE
- HUMAN (KHALIFAH)

The Importance of Worldview in Building Integrity

1. Divine Foundation

- Tauhid: The fundamental principle in Islam that emphasizes the oneness of Allah (Tauhid) and prohibits shirk (associating partners with Allah).
- Teachings of the Quran and Hadith: Serve as a guide in determining moral principles, ethics, and way of life. Actions and decisions are evaluated based on the teachings of the Quran and Sunnah.
- Responsibility: Assessing how well one's actions align with Allah's commands and the principles of Sharia. This includes worship, morality, and daily practices

2. NATURE

- Nature in Islam: the world and the hereafter – encompassing beliefs in the values of sin and virtue, heaven and hell, and so on. Responsibility & trust as a caliph – to wisely preserve and prosper the environment to gain God's approval (as an act of worship).

3. HUMAN

- Humans in Islam are beings honored by Allah and endowed with intellect and the responsibility of being caliphs.
- They have rights and responsibilities towards themselves and others, including fundamental rights, justice, and social relationships.
- Building noble character and good ethics, such as honesty, patience, and compassion, is essential in a person’s life

The Role of Worldview in Addressing Corruption

1. HOLISTIC APPROACH

Justice: A comprehensive approach ensures that every aspect of life; government, private sector, and the general public adhere to the principles of justice and integrity as prescribed by religion.

Balance: Rights and responsibilities that encompass the rights towards God, oneself, and society - not just self-interest.

2. IMPLEMENTATION

- Education & Awareness

Morals & Ethics: Education in Islam emphasizes the development of both spiritual and physical aspects, encompassing religion, ethics, and morals. Religious education plays a crucial role in shaping attitudes and behaviors against corruption.

Responsibility & Social Awareness: The community needs to be made aware of their responsibilities in preventing corruption through campaigns, talks, seminars, and other means.

- SUPERVISION & AUDIT

Transparency and Accountability: Islam encourages transparent and responsible supervision. Principles such as al-Amr bil Ma’ruf (enjoining good) and al-Nahy an al-Munkar (forbidding evil) highlight the importance of supervision in preventing corruption.

Prevention and Supervision (hisbah): Establishing an effective audit system that aligns with religious, ethical, and moral principles to ensure that all affairs are conducted with integrity and according to established

- POLICIES & LAWS

Legislation: Islam encourages transparent and responsible supervision. Principles such as al-Amr bil Ma’ruf (enjoining good) and al-Nahy an al-Munkar (forbidding evil) highlight the importance of supervision in preventing corruption.

Justice & Trust: Leaders and those entrusted with responsibilities must carry out their duties with justice and integrity.

The Role of Worldview in Addressing Corruption

- Understanding the Objectives of Shariah (Maqasid Shariah): For Muslims, every consideration must take into account the level of necessity, whether it is at the level of daruriyyat (necessities), hajiyyat (needs), or tahsiniyyat (enhancements). It should also ensure that none of the five main elements in Maqasid Shariah—religion, life, property, intellect, and lineage—suffer any harm. Additionally, the balance between different interests must be considered: public interest versus individual interest, human interest versus environmental and animal interest, confirmed interest versus unconfirmed interest, and worldly interest versus hereafter interest.

Objectives of Shariah (Maqasid Shariah)

What is Maqasid Syariah? (ref)

- Maqasid Shariah refers to the objectives or goals of Islamic law. It represents the underlying purposes that Shariah aims to achieve, ensuring the welfare and benefit of humanity. The concept is rooted in the idea that all Islamic rulings are intended to protect and preserve certain essential values.
- Religion (Deen): Protecting the freedom to practice and uphold religious beliefs.

1. Life (Nafs): Ensuring the protection and preservation of human life.
2. Intellect (Aql): Promoting education and safeguarding the mind from harm.
3. Lineage (Nasl): Preserving family and societal structures.
4. Property (Mal): Protecting wealth and resources.

- For Muslims, every consideration must take into account the level of necessity, whether it is at the level of daruriyyat (necessities), hajiyyat (needs), or tahsiniyyat (enhancements).
- Additionally, it should ensure that none of the five main elements in Maqasid Shariah—religion, life, property, intellect, and lineage—suffer any harm.
- Furthermore, the balance between different interests must be considered:
- Public interest versus individual interest
- Human interest versus environmental and animal interest
- Confirmed interest versus unconfirmed interest
- Worldly interest versus hereafter interest

KECERDASAN MORAL (MORAL INTELLIGENCE)

DEFINITION:

Moral intelligence as our mental capacity to apply universal human principles to our personal values, goals, and actions. While cognitive (IQ) and technical intelligence are important in your role as a leader, moral intelligence is significantly more important because it directs the other intelligences and provides meaning.

Creating a 24-hour live feed on social media

Donating sperm/ovum to a research facility

a romantic relationship with a robot

Self-driving car hits a child (who is responsible

Opening market for breastmilk

Seeking justice through exposure on social media

The use of hyper-personalized data for commercialization
