Definition of Values

- Values are standards or principles used to evaluate the worth of something, whether true, good, useful, desired, or otherwise false, bad, undesirable, or useless (Hashim Musa, 2008).

Difference Between Ethics, Morals, and Values

VALUES	MORALS	ETHICS
• Standards & principles to evaluate behavior, actions, or events.	• Customs and behaviors accepted by society as good, proper, and right.	• A code/system that regulates the conduct of a society or organization.

AKHLAK (MANNERS)

- Good, true and appropriate behavior and behavior that produces good for oneself and also benefits others which is aimed at the pleasure of God.

> A steady disposition in the human soul (al-nafs) and from it all actions are easily produced without involving the power of thought and deliberation. If the disposition results in a noble deed, that is a praiseworthy act according to intellectual reason and Sharia, then the disposition is called good Akhlak. But if on the other hand he realizes a bad act (or a despicable act according to intellectual reason and Sharia), then that psychological disposition is called bad Akhlak. Al-Ghazali

THE DIFFERENCE OF ETHICS, MORALS AND VALUES

VALUE THEORY (AXIOLOGY)

MORAL VALUES
(standards & principles to measure behavior / stance / purpose whether appropriate or not)

DOCTRINE VALUE
(based on beliefs, attitudes and principles that determine what should, can and is good to act)

AESTHETIC VALUE
(Related to the measure of taste and beauty)

CULTURAL VALUES
(contains norms & rules enforced by community organizations & institutions such as laws, customs etc.)

ETIQUETTE (ADAB)

- Discipline over the human body, mind and heart that allows them to act and deal with things in a correct, appropriate, reasonable and accurate way.
- Formal and informal education - instilling and nurturing knowledge, values, manners, morals and ethics that enable people to act, and behave in a reasonable and appropriate manner that benefits themselves and society.

(Hashim Musa, 2008)

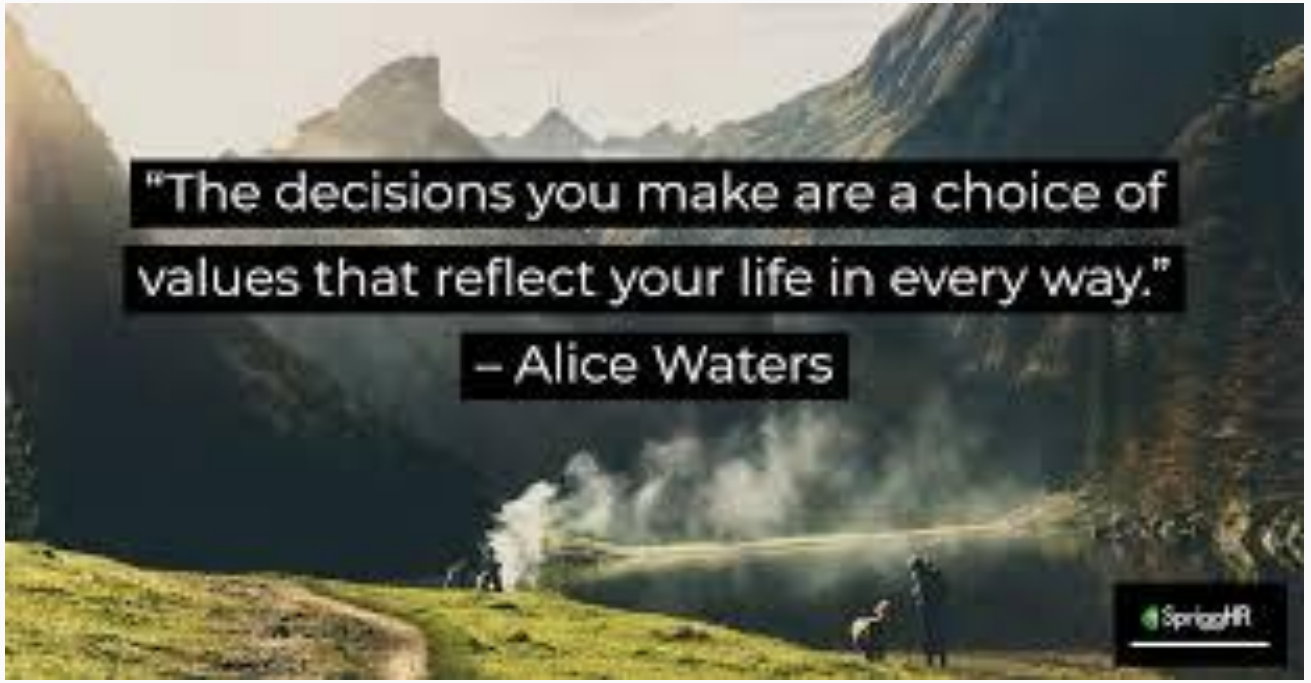

NURTURING MANNERS AS A PROCESS OF SOWING VALUES

Etiquette involves things like the following:

i) an act to discipline the soul and mind;
ii) the search for qualities and qualities of a good soul and mind;
iii) correct and appropriate behavior as opposed to wrong and bad behavior;
iv) knowledge that can save people from mistakes in making decisions and from something that is not praiseworthy
v) identification and recognition of the position (something) correctly and accurately
vi) a method of knowing that produces the position of something correctly and accurately;
vii) Manifestation of justice as highlighted by wisdom.

(Al-Attas,)

Values are extremely important for everyone.
When you have your moral values guiding your path, you get saved from the darkness beyond.
Life is a mix of a lot of experiences, journeys, failures, achievements and when one has values and morals steering his/her actions, life becomes easy and a happy story.

DEFINITION OF SELF-IDENTITY

- A unique and special nature or characteristic (in terms of custom, language, culture, religion etc.) that is the core and symbol of an individual's personality, a nation etc., (Malay Literature Reference Center, DBP)

- Self-Identity is the elements of life that reflect the outward appearance of an individual or society. In the true sense, self-identity is the reflection of individuals, communities and nations that have the qualities of integrity that they are proud of. (Datuk Seri Utama Dr. Rais Yatim)

- Self-Identity is also referred to as an identity that refers to the true self-identity or personality possessed by a person, not only visible on the outside, but also including the values he holds. (Wan Muhamad 2010)

"Self-Identity is also a sacred struggle to raise the dignity of the establishment of UTM itself as one of the platforms to produce quality future leaders." – Prof. Datuk Ts Dr. Ahmad Fauzi Ismail

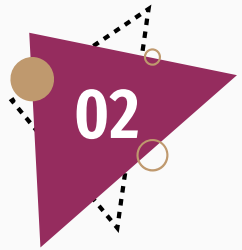

- Five characteristics of UTM citizens' Self-Identity that need to be understood:
  - on duty to achieve the pleasure of Allah SWT which of course demands for us to be more honest and integrity in carrying out our daily work;
  - be wise and highlight the high quality of scholarly expertise that will be used as a guide and also a reference for the community;
  - Consistent and clear with the goals and mission of UTM;
  - accompany and treat the community with high courtesy;
  - This is in line with our function as a science and technology research and development center that becomes the pillar in the long-term development of the country.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SELF-IDENTITY

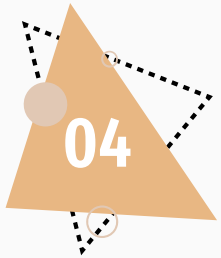

Increase self-esteem and defend self-respect

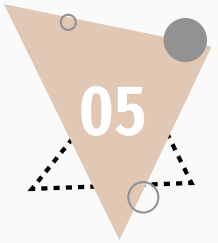

Stand on own strength

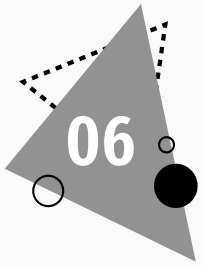

Not easily influenced or submissive to foreign systems and cultures

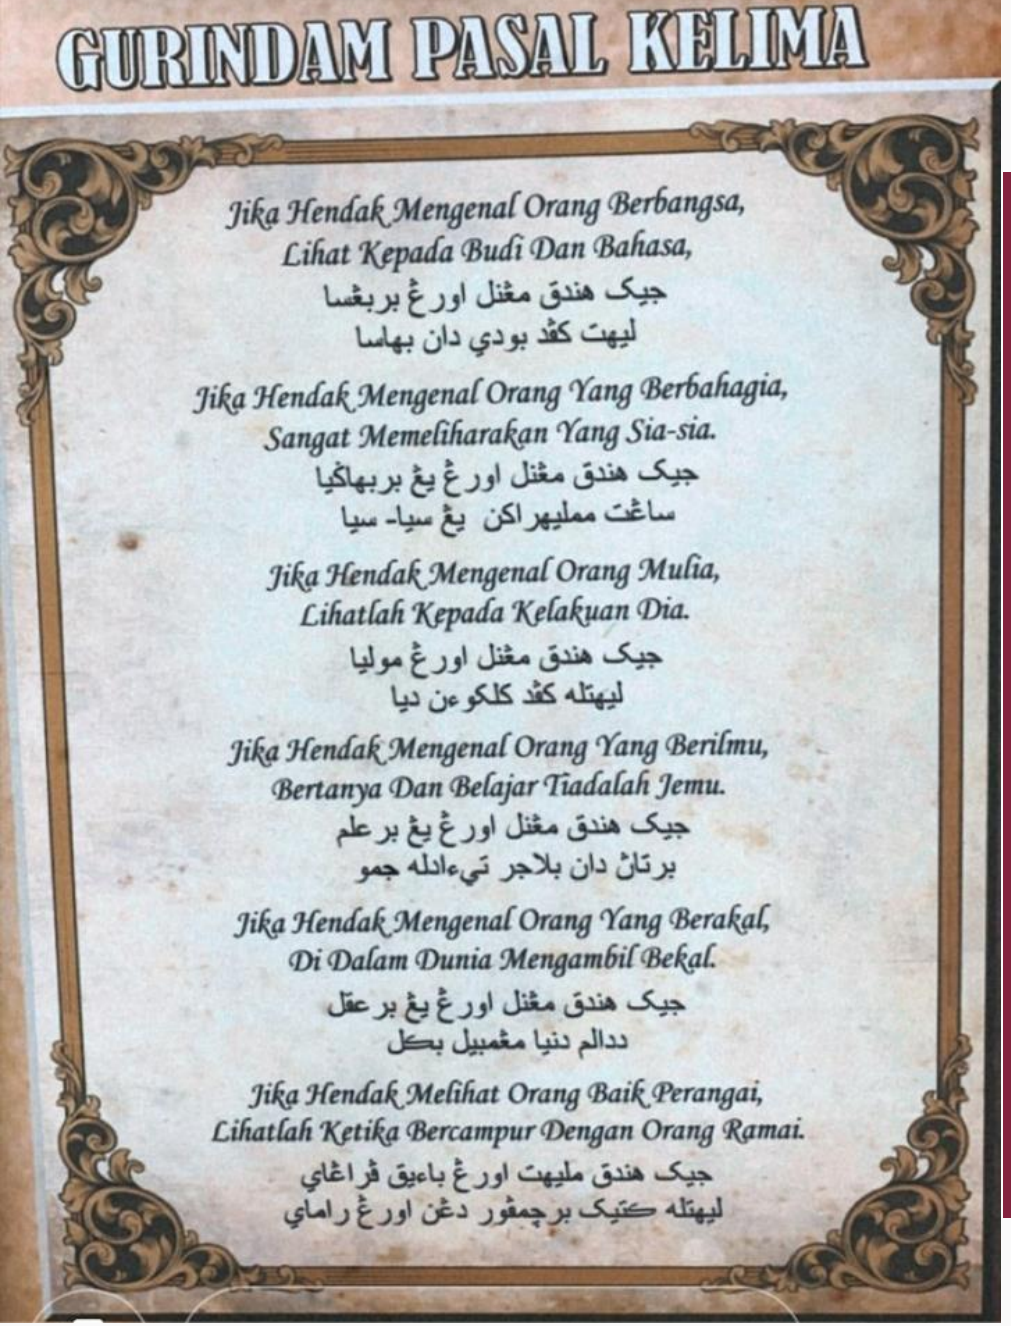

Stand firm and not easily swayed

Strengthen synergy and social solidarity in religious and cultural diversity

High personality and character

CONCLUSION

Value is something important and cannot be taken from us.

Values become a guide in life and shape the identity of individuals and nations.

Self-Identity forms the identity of self and nation, which is whole and resilient and principled.

Values and Self-Identity make us people of integrity.
